Is there a product out there that could modify signal-hopping ELF waves?

2019/04/25

Hello, Zephyr! First of all we are sorry to move your question to another section, but we believe that many people in US have similar problem, so that information may be useful for them. We at jammer-store will try to help you in a best way we can. I see a couple of solutions of your problem. First of all you should know that it is rather dangerous to interfere with ELF waves, especially with 2,5 Hz — 20 kHz, it may be extremely dangerous to your health, because your brain evokes those waves. I'd recommend you to get in touch with our engineering support team here and tell them what specific ELF frequencies you need to block. There is a possibility that they will be able to build a custom device for you. And the second, less dangerous option is to block the frequencies, that may be used for transmitting those "evoked potentials", like GSM or CDMA. If NSA is spying on you with ELF waves, you still have to care about your health. In that case you'll need a universal device, that will be able to block a wide range of frequencies. We'd recommend RCJ40-D signal blocker for home or office use, due to its wide coverage. Keep in mind that it is a powerful, stationary device and it is powered from your electrical grid. Another option will be a portable device, Monstro jammer, it is universal too and has a battery, so you'll be able to use it anywhere you need. Thanks for your question, I hope, I've managed to help.
